Summary: Isaac x Mia For Triad and Midnight! Ivan contemplates the end of the world, amongst other things, such as Isaac and Mia, and their depressed state. Their love would transcend eternity... But they don't know that, do they?

Chapter 1*: Transcend Eternity

disclaimer: I, unfortunately, do not own GS... It belongs to Camelot.

notes: Isaac x Mia-ish story thru the eyes of Ivan. I thought it'd be interesting... Dedicated to Triad Orion and Midnight C, our neighborhood king and queen of Mudshipping. ...And, cuz, I haven't worshipped them much lately, so this is to make up for it. ^_^;; Dabs of Felix x Sheba and Garet x Jenna, and fairly short.

Ivan sounds so scholarly in this, now that I read it over... ^^;; If you find it repetitive, I'm REALLY SORRY! ^^v ...I find it pretty good, in my own opinion...

I see them look at each other. I see the pain in their eyes, the pain in their hearts. It begs to be expressed, to be comforted. ...Do they see each other? I do wonder... Being a Jupiter adept, and knowing things beyond yourself and infinity is not very enjoyable. How does my sister bear this agonizing pain? Knowing that the fate of Weyard rests on some reckless teenagers and an old scholar? Does she go to sleep asking Iris for salvation, as I do?

I'm only depressing myself further. Isaac and Felix are stressed as it is, and I don't wish to burden them any more. Felix is lucky, having Sheba for mental, physical and emotional support. As I look around, I see Garet bothering Jenna in his usual childish ways. At least a sense of mutual like is there... They'll be engaged by the end of our journey. I know they will. The feelings between Isaac and Mia are there and are not unknown, but Sheba and I believe they miss it because they're so enmassed in sadness.

I find it perplexing. Isaac is still in mourning. Is his father not alive? I get the impression Kyle is amongst us on the earth. Somewhere. And Mia mourns the loss of Alex. Sheba has told me they were once lovers, but when he betrayed the Mercury clan of Imil, her heart was shattered. Some say people who mourn flock together... This seems not to be the case for them.

Love is a fickle thing. It can be the strongest support ever built between two people, and it can easily fall with a simple touch; a slip of the words. I see them look at each other -- yet they do not -see- each other. They long for the other's attention, for the other's comforting touch... but they are afraid. Despite the severity of this problem, I have to laugh. We, as a group, have set out to save the world, fight monsters, have defeated a two-headed dragon, and yet they're afraid of each other? It is vaguely amusing.

Their love, I am sure, would transcend eternity. It was written in their destinies, the stars, their paths, that they would fall in love -- but would it be unrequited? Even I do not have an answer to such a question. Only -they- can answer that for themselves. But will they? Isaac is so courageous and bold in his actions; Mia is determined to change the fate of the world. He is the south, and she is the north -- they will have to clash sooner or later. When, though? Will it be too late...?

I have too many questions. Gareth constantly tells me that I'm over- confident and prideful... I suppose that's true. I expect any question that I come across will be easy to answer. Now, I have to admit that I have to sit back and watch. I can do nothing to change their futures; only they can do that. I cannot over-analyze them... Trying to discern one from another would... It would...

...transcend eternity.
